Harvard Law School Public Interest Fellowships

Memorandum of Understanding on Arrangements for Harvard Law School’s Public Service Venture Fund/Kaufman Fellowship and Skirnick Fellowship

TERMS OF AGREEMENT
As a participant in Harvard Law School’s Public Service Venture Fund, we, the undersigned parties, agree to the following:

1. The Host organization will provide opportunities for meaningful learning and professional development, as well as integration into the office. The Host organization will:

   • Treat the Fellow as if he or she were a staff attorney.
   • Aim to include the Fellow in the range of its work where possible, such as client meetings, strategy discussions, and court appearances.
   • Endeavor to expose the Fellow, if the Host organization works in different subject areas, to as many subject areas as possible; this could be accomplished in many ways, (for example, by hosting brown bag lunches in which attorneys from each area discuss their work).
   • Provide the Fellow with primarily substantive work and responsibility matching that of any other entry-level attorney.
   • Make an effort to treat the Fellow as part of the organization’s team, (for example, including them in staff meetings if applicable).

2. The Host organization will provide a clear framework for supervision of the Fellow. The Host organization will:

   • Explain who will supervise the Fellow and when and how the supervisor(s) will be available to the Fellow, as well as who the Fellow will report to; ideally, the Fellow will have one or two assigned supervisors, but may also receive assignments from others within the Host organization.
   • Identify all of the possible people that may give the Fellow assignments and whom the Fellow should speak with if she or he needs more work or requires assistance in prioritizing work provided by different people within the office.
   • Ensure that the Fellow is supervised by an attorney who spends substantial time in the office or is otherwise regularly available to the Fellow.
3. The Host organization will provide the Fellow with an Orientation. The Host organization will:

- Compile materials that the Fellow is going to need, such as background on the organization or matters on which the Fellow will be working, interesting articles or publications, a staff list with names and numbers, etc.
- Provide the Fellow, on or around the first day, with an orientation introducing him or her to the relevant staff and issues, as well as a meeting with his or her immediate supervisor to discuss the organization’s and the Fellow’s goals, (i.e., does she need a writing sample, want to interact with clients, seek exposure to particular legal issues etc.), for the duration of the fellowship.

4. The Host organization will provide focused and regularly-scheduled feedback as follows. The Host organization will:

- Schedule feedback in a formal way that helps ensure that even during particularly hectic work periods there is time set aside to provide meaningful review of the Fellow’s work.
- Provide thoughtful review of the Fellow’s research, analysis, writing, oral skills and interpersonal skills so that the feedback will not only help improve the quality of the work that the Fellow performs for the Host organization but will also help the Fellow develop important skills.
- Review the Fellow’s written work and explain what should be different and why.
- Aim to provide a structured mid-fellowship evaluation and an exit interview.

5. Terms of service for the Fellowship at the Host organization:

- The specific start and end dates are to be determined by the Fellow and the Host organization. The Bernard Koteen Office of Public Interest Advising, (the administrator of the Public Service Venture Fund), requires the Fellow spend a full 12 months with the Host organization.
- Any early departure from the fellowship, even for permanent employment, will need to be approved both by the Host organization and by Alexa Shabecoff, Assistant Dean for Public Service at Harvard Law School. An end date that is considerably less than the full year will likely be rejected. However, since the fellowship is designed to help launch the fellow’s career, as well as provide assistance to the Host organization, HLS will approve and the Host organization should sanction, reasonable early release for another permanent or longer-term public service position.
- The host organization may not terminate an HLS fellowship without advance notice to the Fellow and to the Bernard Koteen Office of Public Interest Advising (OPIA) and a chance to remediate any problems that may have arisen.
6. Fellowship Payment and Disbursement

- The Fellowship payments will be disbursed directly to the host organization if they have agreed to enroll the Fellow into their health insurance program or other employee-related benefits. Harvard Law School’s Bernard Koteen Office of Public Interest Advising must receive an invoice on official letterhead from the Host organization stating the full amount of the fellowship, the stated purposes of payment, the Employer Identification Number, and an authorizing signature from a Host organization official confirming the payment and purpose. Email is preferred and can be sent to Mr. Micah Nemiroff at mnemiroff@law.harvard.edu.

- Payments will be made directly to the Fellow by check or wire transfer in all other circumstances.

7. Health care coverage/provisions

- Health care coverage is required for the duration of the Fellowship. If the Host organization is not providing health care coverage, it is incumbent upon the Fellow to seek and purchase health insurance independently. Moreover, Harvard Law School requires proof of coverage before disbursing any fellowship payment. Proof can be demonstrated by a photo copy of an insurance card, insurance plan or any document showing proof of coverage.

- If the Host organization has agreed to provide health insurance, a statement of the fact must be provided by the Host organization directly to the Bernard Koteen Office of Public Interest Advising. The letter must be sent, on letterhead, to Mr. Micah Nemiroff at mnemiroff@law.harvard.edu.

Reporting

The Fellow or the Host organization should alert Alexa Shabecoff at the Bernard Koteen Office of Public Interest Advising (OPIA) at Harvard Law School if any issues arise during the course of the Fellowship after an attempt has been made by the Host organization and the Fellow to resolve the issue by themselves.

The Fellow and the Host organization will each be required to submit a brief report at the 6-month and year-end mark outlining the work performed and lessons learned.
