Now, to tell you the truth, from the very first mention of Long John in Squier Trelawney's letter, I had taken a great fear in my mind that he might prove to be the one-legged sailor whom I had watched for so long at the Old Benbow.

But one look at the man before me was enough; I had seen the captain and Black Dog, and the blind man Pew, and I thought I knew a buccaneer was like—a very different creature, according to me, from this clean, pleasant, and temperate landlord. I plucked up courage at once, crossed the threshold, and walked right to the man where he stood propped on his crutch, talking to a customer.

* One of the pirates.

---

Treasure Island by R. L. Stevenson

Joe Christensen, Inc.  03/05/03 44
PROOFREADING

- Use italics—used in text
- Italic—used in margin
- Small caps—used in text
- Small caps—used in margin
- Capitals—used in margin
- Capitals—used in text
- Roman type
- Bold face—used in margin
- Bold fact—used in text
- p.c. See copy

Note: Colon and semicolon are handled differently to distinguish them. Likewise with comma and quotes.

Instructions to printer are written; corrections printed.

Corrections on proofs are always clearly marked in the margin. Corrections on manuscript may be made within the line so long as it is clear.