

Know What You Owe

As you begin planning for the future from a financial standpoint, it's vital to know what you owe. To do this, you'll need to look at your finances comprehensively by identifying all you debt: mortgage, credit cards, student loans, etc. Use this tool to organize your debt in one place so you can track your current balances, monthly payments and interest rates and begin making a plan to become debt-free.

MAX STRATEGY TIP: First, run your credit report and check your online accounts to review each for accuracy. Second, make it a short- or medium-term SMART goal to pay off one debt. (SMART = Specific, Measurable, Achievable, Relevant and Time-Bound.)

Mortgage(s)
Debt Issuer	Initial Balance	Current Balance	Minimum Monthly Payment	Interest Rate	Repayment Term
Total:

Credit Card(s)
Debt Issuer	Initial Balance	Current Balance	Minimum Monthly Payment	Interest Rate	Repayment Term
Total:

Car Loan(s)
Debt Issuer	Initial Balance	Current Balance	Minimum Monthly Payment	Interest Rate	Repayment Term
Total:

