Winter Term Writing Program Application
Narrative Response Form

Please respond to each of the following questions. If a question is not applicable to your proposal, you should indicate "not applicable" as your answer. Responses should be brief (no more than approximately 500 words per question) and specific to the research and writing proposed to meet winter residency requirements. Submit the completed responses via the Winter Term Writing Program Application Form.

Please note we will only accept complete narrative forms. If your submission does not address all of the questions, we will return it to you to complete before reviewing.

1. Please provide a brief description of your project and the progress you have made during the fall term. (500-word limit)

2. Describe your research methodology. (500-word limit)

3. Have you presented your proposal to your Writing Group (SJD-led and/or Upper-Level 1-cr) and/or SJD Writing Advisor? If yes, please provide a brief overview of the feedback you received. (500-word limit)

4. Please describe the work that you will do during the winter term, both in terms of the smaller-scale research or writing goals you will accomplish, and how you will manage your time to achieve those goals. (500-word limit)

5. What will you submit to your faculty supervisor at the end of the term – a detailed outline, rough draft, other (please specify if "other")? We encourage students to complete as much as possible during the winter term while also being realistic about what is possible. (500-word limit)

6. Describe your arrangements for faculty supervision of your papers before, during, and after winter term (this will vary by supervisor and examples might include having regularly scheduled meetings, informal contact as needed, or a detailed schedule for drafts). (500-word limit)
